ANNEXURE VMANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS REPORT

Pursuant to Clause 49 (IV) (B) & (F) of the Listing Agreement your Directors wish to report as follows:

(A) INDUSTRY STRUCTURE AND DEVELOPMENT

India is the fourth-largest producer of crude steel (up from eighth in 2003) and is slated to become the second-largest steel producer by 2016, as large public and private sector players strengthen steel production capacity in view of rising demand. The market value of the Indian steel sector is expected to reach US$ 95.3 billion by FY 16.

Driven by rising infrastructure development and growing demand for automotives; steel consumption is expected to reach 104 million tonnes (MT) by 2017. Infrastructure is India's largest steel consumer, accounting for 63 per cent of total consumption in FY12.

Steel production in India has increased at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 7.9 per cent over FY 09–14 to record 81.54 mtpa. The industry capacity is expected to increase to 112.5 MT by FY16. Total domestic demand for steel estimated at 113.3 million tonnes per annum (MTPA) by 2016-17. Moreover, 301 memorandums of understanding (MoUs) have been signed with various states for planned capacity of about 486.7 MT.

The Government of India has also allowed 100 per cent foreign direct investment (FDI) under the automatic route in the steel sector. National Steel Policy (NSP) has been implemented to encourage the industry to reach global benchmarks. In addition, the government has also stepped up infrastructure spending from the current 5 per cent of gross domestic product (GDP) to 10 per cent by 2017. India is committed to investing US$ 1 trillion in infrastructure during the 12th Five Year Plan (2012–17), from US$ 428 billion in the 11th Five-Year Plan.

India produced 7.07 MT of steel in January 2015 reporting the fourth highest production level globally which was 1.7 per cent higher than the country's steel production in the same month last year. The steel sector in India contributes nearly two per cent of the country's gross domestic product (GDP) and employs over 600,000 people. The per capita consumption of total finished steel in the country has risen from 51 Kg in 2009-10 to about 60 Kg in 2013-14.

(B) OPPORTUNITIES AND THREATS

Steel Authority of India Ltd (SAIL) expects steel consumption to grow eight-nine per cent in FY16. India, the world's fourth-largest producer, saw its consumption of total finished steel grow 3.1 per cent to 76.4 million tonnes (mt) in the last financial year, from 74.1 mt in 2013-14.

"As the government is increasingly focusing on ramping up infrastructure and chalking out programmes to develop roads, ports and affordable housing, we expect steel consumption to grow eight-nine per cent in 2015-16," India's consumption of total finished steel saw a growth of 3.1 per cent in 2014-15.

According to industry body World Steel Association, steel consumption in India is expected to grow by 6.2 per cent to 80 MT in 2015 from 75.3 MT in 2014.

In its short range forecast, the association pegs consumption of the metal to grow by 7.3 per cent to 85.8 MT in 2016 as compared to 2015.

The cost of funding working capital remains high, given the lending rates and increased pressure on margins coupled with expectation of modest improvement in demand poses a challenge for the industry. The consistent slowdown in demand has resulted in oversupply and thereby leading to depressed Steel prices. Your Company has high focus on efficient cost control to mitigate this external threat of price ceiling by end users.

(C) OUTLOOK

Global steel production scenario has largely been shaped by the huge growth in both consumption and production of steel during this period. With globalization of the business of the steel industry, global trade in steel also grew rapidly till recently acquiring increasing share in the total production. Although this trend has flattened in the past few years with 2012 showing in fact a reduction in volume of steel traded in the international market, the total volume of trade in steel is likely to increase in the years to come considering the stronger initiatives taken by nations across the world to raise global trade.

The developments in the world steel market are important in the context of growth of the Indian steel industry. It is so also in view of the fact that unless globally cost competitive in a relatively open global market, the industry will not only have to fight for its space in the domestic market but also fail to grab shares in the world market. Competitiveness will depend on many factors including efficiency in production, labour productivity, costs of raw materials and infrastructure to move raw materials and finished products at low costs.

Also, despite the barriers to trade falling in the last few decades, the industry cannot be assured that the international trade in steel or any other product will go this way forever. The industry will have to take into account the non-tariff barriers which are coming up strongly across the world including the developed nations. Further, with more and more regional trade blocks coming with free and preferential trade, the global trading system will continue to face significant trade uncertainty and market disturbance. The industry will, therefore, require to take a broader view on the long term trade opportunities in the event it has to remain significantly dependent on the world market for business expansion.

Further, while it is not difficult to understand the factors related to domestic capabilities in absolute terms, the industry will have to be judged relatively in the context of global developments in capacity building, competitiveness, technological developments and future raw materials scenario.

It is fairly clear that while there has been a continuous strong growth, year on year, in China. However, the trends in Japan and USA have not been so. The European Union has not been out of the financial mess and the emerging economies do not hold any strong promise to the global investor community in the short run as their macro management has been far below expectation. The latest report of IMF also point to gloomy prospects of the emerging economies while at the same time, they have in fact seen some stability creeping into the economies of the developed world.
